

OWNERS ARE TANGLED UP OVER CLERMONT HALL

Levine Asks For Accounting From N. L. Feldman and Hyman Leventhal, His Partners in Deal.

MYSTERIOUS GREENBURG MADE OFFER AND VANISHED

Value Thus Set Hyman Leven-thal Sets Up Claim to Third of Profits.

The partition action brought by Hyman Levine of this city against N. L. Feldman, Hyman Leventhal and others of Kingston for an accounting of the purchase of the Clermont Hall building, now known as Clermont Hall, was taken up Friday before Judge William D. Cunningham who was appointed referee to hear the case and decide the questions involved.

Several questions are involved and the matter presents many difficulties. M. O. Auchmoody appears for Hyman Levine. Judge John G. Van Dine appears for Hyman Leventhal; William H. Grogan appears for N. L. Feldman and Mark Sampson for the estate of Greenburg, an infant, defendant.

Since the purchase of the Clermont Hall building, which is located at the corner of Wall and John streets and which in addition to a hall on the third floor contains several offices on the second floor and several stores on the ground floor, one of the original purchasers has died thus complicating the matter. It is more so testimony which he might have given in the matter will be impossible to secure except such part of the transaction as his son, Nathan L. Feldman, can give from the matter while acting as his father's lawyer during his life time. Abraham Feldman, one of the three original purchasers, was killed in an automobile accident at Newburgh and is survived by his wife and five children. Their interests with the exception of Sadie who is still an infant and is represented in the present proceedings by Mark Sampson as guardian ad litem, have been transferred to Nathan L. Feldman.

In March 1920 Nathan Levine and Abraham Feldman entered into a partnership and purchased of the late Greenburg the property. Hyman Leventhal who had been taken in as a third partner prior to that time was not given a legal interest in the property, it being understood that at any time during the life of the contract he would be given a deed for 1-10th interest in the property upon demand.

This agreement was entered into in February prior to the actual purchase of the property. He was to have a third interest in any profits derived from the property. After the contract in February was entered into by the three partners, Feldman and Levine got together and in March purchased the property for $20,000, paying down $10,000 and taking title in the two names. This money was supplied by three partners, Feldman and Levine paying $4,500 each and Leventhal remaining $1,000. The first contract entered into with Leventhal was to the effect that he was to have a 1-10th interest in the title and demand and share in the profits or losses equally with the other two partners.

However after the purchase of the property and in April of the year 1921 another agreement was entered into by the three partners. By this contract they agreed to share the profits and share alike between them a 1-10th interest in the property by deed at any time during the term of the contract.

The agreement which was first entered into and which placed no limit on the time the contract was to last is the contract which Mr. Leventhal claims. It is his contention that since this contract was not canceled at the time of the second contract he is entitled to his third interest in the profits. The other two owners, Feldman and Levine, however, contend that the second contract which canceled the first contract was merged with the second contract and that at the expiration of the three year period Leventhal no longer had the right to share a part of the profits. They are willing to give him his tenth interest in the building which represents the amount of money which he put in the deal. Mr. Leventhal sets up a claim for a large sum of money which he claims is due him through the failure of the partners to consummate a sale which was provided for in the contract.

He contends that an offer made for the property by a New York man named Greenburg for $20,000. This offer to buy was made after Greenburg had visited the building about a week prior to the expiration of the three year contract. Greenburg visited the property and showed through the building by Levine who informed him that it was a partner and would consult other partners and let him know the decision. At that time the value was set at $20,000, Leventhal,

The chapter was organized with a membership of about ten and it is desired that every man eligible in Ulster county will affiliate himself with the new organization.

BENNETT AND LOLLYPOPS AT SCHOOL 7 TUESDAY

Prof. Bruce Bennett of the New Paltz Normal school will speak to the parents at School No. 7 on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. A large attendance is desired. Preceding Prof. Bennett's talk the Parent-Teacher Association will hold their regular business meeting at 3:30 o'clock. Lollypops will be given to the grade which has the greatest number of parents present at the meeting.

they allege, said this was too cheap and that they should get $75,000. Later Levine went to New York and saw the prospective purchaser and the offer for $70,000 was made by the purchaser. However it was im- possible to later locate the prospec- tive purchaser and the sale was not consummated. It is claimed by Levine and Feldman that this offer coming a few days before the ex- piration of the year contract was not made in good faith and that it was intended to establish facts which might later be used to show the value of the building. Mr. Leventhal, how- ever, contends that the offer was made in good faith, and that he was deprived of profits in which he would have shared a third interest under his contract.

Judge Van Dine in opening his case explained that Leventhal was in the real estate business and he had a purchaser for the property. However, when he found that Feldman and Levine wanted to buy the property he turned down the other purchaser and thereby suffered a loss of commission and went in with Levine and Feldman on the deal as a partner in purchasing the property. In the several difficulties which are involved in the deal is a proposed sale by Levine of his interest in the property to Mr. Nathan. Levine agreed to sell his $4,500 share in the property to Mr. Nathan for a sum around $12,000. A partition action was started which stayed the matter against Levine for specific performance of his contract but this matter was adjourned and a settlement arrived at. Then the three partners again got together and the first partition action was dropped. Now Levine comes along with the present partition action which is now in court.

During the partnership Mr. Levine has kept all the accounts of the partnership and these books were presented in court Friday afternoon and Mr. Levine explained the various books. All of the accounts were kept by him except some entries of expenditures which were entered up by a girl who entered them from the check stubs. These items, Mr. Levine said, were accurate as he had compared them. During May, 1922, an accountant who is no longer in town started a new set of books for Levine and several days were entered by this accountant but Mr. Levine explained they were copied from the old book by the accountant who was showing him how to care for a new set of books. The books will later be explained by an expert who will examine them.

N. L. Feldman, who is now one of the defendants but friendly to Mr. Levine the plaintiff, prior to his father's death loaned the partnership $4,000 on a note. This note bears Levine's signature and Leventhal's signature. It has not been paid. Some of the money which was borrowed at that time was used for improvements to the property when new fronts were put in. However, Mr. Feldman testified that he understood that $1,500 of the money had been divided equally among the three partners. This was prior to the time of his father's death and when he was not closely connected with the business as he had been since his father's death. During his father's lifetime however he had examined the books and papers in an advisory capacity as his father could not read or write. Since his father's death he has collected the rents and transacted other business for the partnership.

The case which involves several questions and which is rather "mixed up" will have to be tried very carefully and consequently will take some time.

Old DeWaal Tavern Sold

Max Baker Acquires Big and Ancient
Stone House From A. L. Wercley
For $15,000.

The old stone house at No. 80 North Front street, known for many years as the DeWaal Tavern, has been sold by Alonzo L. Wercley to Max Baker, title having been closed Friday afternoon at the law office of Arthur C. Connelly, who represented the buyer. Milton O. Auchmoody represented the seller in the transaction. The deed has been filed in the Ulster county clerk's office and revenue stamps attached to it indicate that the purchase price was $15,000.

The house is situated on the southerly side of North Front street, midway in the block between Crown and Green streets, and is one of the largest and best preserved old stone houses of the city. For a number of years it has been occupied by two families.

More than a hundred years ago, the building was the DeWaal Tavern, and its ballroom was the scene of most of the big social events of what was then the village of Kingston. History relates that the DeWaal Tavern figured prominently each year in the exercises and ceremonies in connection with the graduation of the old Kingston Academy, which was situated at the corner of John and Crown streets.

Make City Even Cleaner

It's Pretty Good In That Respect,
Says Chief Chipp But Winter's
Refuse Should Now Be Cleared
Away as Fire Prevention Measure.

Fire Chief Chipp has a complaint to pay to the people of Kingston. The chief of course makes frequent tours of the city, and at this season his trained eye is naturally on the look-out for hazardous accumulations of rubbish and litter. Yesterday, on his return from one of these inspection trips, he declared that Kingston could, without much trouble, stack up against any American community of its size as far as cleanliness is concerned.

"I believe," said Chief Chipp, commenting further, "that there is no reason why, with a little effort, Kingston should not be entirely free from at least one kind of fire loss; I mean the loss due to fires which start in piles of rubbish and litter. The time is at hand for the usual spring cleaning, both inside and out, and I strongly urge every family to make a complete job of it, throwing out the worthless odds and ends that have accumulated in attics, cellars and yards throughout the past twelve months. Spaces under porches and other out-of-the-way corners should not be overlooked. The removal of such useless 'truck' not only increases the fire-safety of the home, but is a recognized health measure and an object lesson for the children in order and cleanliness. Business premises, too, will be the better for a thorough cleaning now and then, and the best season for it is the present one."

"Last year in the United States property worth nearly a million dollars was destroyed by fires starting in piles of rubbish and litter. This figure, which does not include the cost of extinguishing these blazes, or the waste of valuable time, I learn from the Accrual Bureau of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, which is, as many know, the national center of fire loss statistics. To this destruction Kingston contributed its share last year and in the years before. But from now on it need not lose one cent from this cause if every one will do his part to help make a clean city cleaner."

"Another hazard," continued the chief, "which finds its way into my records during March and April is the practice of burning brush and dry grass. Many such fires, hundreds of them in this city alone, get beyond control every spring, frequently involving much valuable property and sometimes causing loss of life. For adults a word of caution should be sufficient; for the youngsters who thus create a serious danger something more than a word may be needed to stop them. There is a statute on the books of this city forbidding promiscuous setting of bonfires, and it will be enforced."

Fire hazards in garages are also being given attention by the chief as a part of his spring campaign.

Young Judea Entertainment.

Work on the Young Judea benefit entertainment and minstrels is well under way and the participants are undergoing strenuous coaching at the hands of James Benn. The affair promises to be a great novelty for there are numerous added attractions to the entertainment besides a humorous play. The affair will be presented at the Orpheum Theatre on April 12th.

Kingston New Transfer Point

Making Up of Straight Carloads For Metropolitan Area. Formerly Done at Granton, Now Under Agent Wood's Supervision.

The freight house here of the West Shore Railroad has become the transfer point for less than carload freight from western points destined for terminals in the metropolitan district, and has brought to Kingston about 25 men to handle the work. One of these is a transfer clerk, four are car checkers and the remainder freight handlers. The change has been in progress since March 20 and is now in smooth working order.

Formerly this transfer was made at Granton yard, at Weehawken, its operation is as follows: Cars from Chicago and points east of there, containing freight in less than carload lots for various terminals around New York, such as the Bush Terminal in Brooklyn, the New York Docks, various piers, Long Island Transfer, Staten Island Rapid Transit and railroads leading out of New York are halted at Kingston. Here the freight for each point is gathered together until there is a carload, when it is forwarded in one car to its destination. The additional work here comes under the supervision of Freight Agent G. N. Wood and promises to tax the facilities of the freight house and tracks adjacent thereto to their limit.

Boat Builders Are All Busy

All of the boatyards along the Rondout creek are operating with full forces of men, and have been working all winter building barges. Most of the work is contract work.

With the opening of navigation and the towing season there will also be a number of repair jobs to keep the yards busy in addition to new building contemplated. The boat building industry along the Rondout creek is one of the big industries of Kingston, and more building is done here than at any port between Albany and New York.

Basketball for Olympic Fund

Metropolitan League to Stage Carnival Between Best Teams in Country at Brooklyn April 14—
O'Brien Next Season's President.

After enjoying the most successful year since its organization, the Metropolitan Basketball League wound up its affairs for this season at the closing spring meeting Thursday night at Prospect Hall.

Managers Donlon and Ross were felicitated on the successful performance of their Brooklyn Visitation in capturing the championship both halves of the season.

The managers unanimously re-elected John J. O'Brien president of the league for the season 1924-25. The most important matter discussed at the meeting was the proposed basketball carnival to be held under the auspices of Mayor Hyman's committee on Athletics, for the benefit of the Olympic Fund. The carnival will take place on Monday evening, April 14, at the 12th Regiment armory, Brooklyn.

Following the successful school-boy carnival held in New York last week, for the same cause, at which time the attendance records were broken, President O'Brien proposed to W. W. Cohen, chairman of Mayor Hyman's committee, to have the Metropolitan League stage a series of games between the pick of the best professional quints in the country. As a result of this conference, everyone of the Metropolitan teams were offered to aid the Olympic Fund, in addition to which the services of the Original Celtics, Rosenblums of Cleveland, Glens Falls, New York and Pottsville, Pa., were also offered.

The program now under consideration will bring six of those teams together on Monday, April 14.

City Jail, Having Outlived Its Usefulness, to Be Closed Up

The action to show cause why the city lockup in the city hall should not be closed on account of its present unsatisfactory condition which was scheduled to be held before the State Prison Commission at Albany Friday, has been adjourned until the May meeting of the commission. This decision was arrived at when Corporation Counsel James Jenkins got in touch with the commission Friday by telephone. In the meantime the matter will be talked over and in all probability will be adjusted by the closing of the lockup, which has outlived its usefulness. Prisoners of the police department are detained in the county jail pending hearing.

Following an inspection of the lockup which was made on February 15, 1924, by Inspector James McShillinglaw, he recommended that the city authorities be cited to show cause why the lockup should not be closed. The State Prison Commission on these recommendations did cite the city authorities to show cause on April 4 at Albany why the lockup should not be closed according to provisions of subdivision 8, section 46 of the Prison Law.

At the April meeting of the commission counsel a resolution favoring the abandonment of the city hall jail was tabled by the members of the council.

Between the present date and May when the matter will again come up before the Prison Commission, the matter will be taken up by Corporation Counsel Jenkins and probably straightened out.

NEARLY MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST, NEAR HURLEY

POUGHKEEPSIE WITH NEGRO

Husband Brings Her Back; Negro, Named Hasbrouck, Is Arrested.

Ira Hasbrouck, a light complexioned colored man of the town of Hurley, was brought to the Ulster county jail Friday afternoon by Sergeant James Cunningham of the State Troopers, having been committed by Justice of the Peace Miller to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of assault in the first degree. Several days ago Hasbrouck and William Scully, a white man, had an argument at Lapala or what is known as Eagle's Nest, in the town of Hurley, during which Hasbrouck pulled a revolver and attempted to shoot Scully, but Mrs. Theresa Scully, his wife, grabbed the revolver and she was shot in the hand. Scully, the husband, then swore out a warrant before Justice Miller for the arrest of Hasbrouck and placed it in the hands of Sheriff Wells. Hasbrouck and Mrs. Scully then left together for their homes and went to Poughkeepsie and Mr. Scully then secured papers in an action for divorce and went to Poughkeepsie to serve them on his wife, but after seeing her Scully and wife became reconciled and agreed to go back to Hurley and live happily ever after.

When it was learned that Hasbrouck had returned to Eagle's Nest, the warrant in the hands of Sheriff Wells was turned over to Sergeant Cunningham who arrested Hasbrouck Friday and took him before Justice of the Peace Miller who committed Hasbrouck as before stated, to await the action of the grand jury.

LITTLE KNOWN LAND IN MEXICO IS RICH

Area on East Coast of Yucatan Land of Plenty.

Mexico City.—The following description of the most unknown and the least developed, yet one of the richest parts of Mexico, the territory of Quintana Roo, is from the pen of American Consul O. Gaylord Marsh:

"Perhaps few people in the progressive, ambitious and industrially active centers of civilization, are aware of the existence of a large, undeveloped territory of about 18,000 square miles along the eastern coast of the Peninsula of Yucatan—a territory twice the size of the State of Massachusetts, practically without population, almost as unknown as was darkest Africa, and possessing vast unexploited natural resources. Reference is made to the Mexican territory of Quintana Roo, which lies almost in primeval solitude, but 600 miles south of New Orleans, 1,500 miles south of New York and 800 miles east of Mexico City.

This territory extends from the Gulf of Mexico to the north, to British Honduras and Guatemala to the south, a distance of 200 miles. The capital of it is Santa Cruz de Bravo, which has about 2,500 residents, or a little more than one-fourth of the total population of the territory. Other towns and settlements, containing the major portion of the remaining population, are Payo Obispo and Bacalar.

Coast Abounds in Game.

Contrary to the general formation in Yucatan, the territory of Quintana Roo has several ridges of hills, about nine miles, and a few short rivers flowing to the eastern coast. This rugged coast is washed by the treacherous currents of the Gulf stream, and the Yucatan channel is a natural gateway for the passage of West Indian hurricanes into the Gulf of Mexico. The Mexican government maintains about 12 lighthouses and several wireless stations on this lonely coast, to assist in the safe passage of ships, which have not yet had motives for entering the ports of Morelos, Yula Chico and Payo Obispo.

Information is scanty as to this territory and generally has to be gathered from the few persons—extractors and prospectors—who attack its brambly jungles and brave its hot and insalubrious climate. From a few of these it is gathered that in the West there are great green rolling pampas; that the coast abounds in game and food fishes; that the interior is densely forested with valuable tropical woods, and that the soil is suitable for the production of corn, sugar cane, tobacco, henequen, tropical fruits and a number of other things.

Only Slight Progress Made.

The steam railway has not yet crossed the borders of this rich territory, the stern of steamships has scarcely disturbed the quiet of its natural harbors, and only a month ago did the roar of the first American caterpillar tractor echo in the forests in competition with the pack mule. The water, after six years in Yucatan, has yet to meet the man who has completely crossed this territory, although it is understood that a few have done so.

Quintana Roo, now named from the Yucatan statesman who saved it for a part of the Mexican republic, has many ruins of the once densely populated cities of the lost Maya Indian kingdom; it served as a rendezvous, a cache and a prey of the buccanniers and pirates of the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries; and for many years it was used by the Mexican government as a penal colony. In 1904 the scanty population of 9,000 was given a territorial form of government; but only slight progress has been made, and the territory, with its primordial resources, surrounded with a past romance and pregnant with a future value, yet mutely beckons for an opportunity to share in the development of its near neighbors.

Londoners Opposed to Monument for Animals

London.—The scheme to erect a cenotaph at a cost of $10,000 to the memory of animals, birds and fish killed in battle or during research work during the war is meeting with much criticism and ridicule, and many protests from animal lovers are reaching the papers.

Some protest against the waste of so much money, which, if invested, would save the lives of hundreds of dogs every year. Others make a sarcastic tone and inquire if the promoters anticipate a yearly pilgrimage of representatives of all the birds, beasts and fishes lost in the war.

Professor Says Oxygen Will Cure Seasickness

Paris.—Ocean liners may carry oxygen tanks as unfailingly as life belts if the announcement of Prof. Raphael Dubois of the physiological laboratory at Tamaris-sur-Mer, is accepted. The professor says a sniff or two of oxygen cures both seasickness and mountain sickness.

Pupils Own Dairy Herd

Salina, Kan.—Practical experience in the dairy business is an innovation this year in the high school at Hill City and a class of boys are taking the course. The boys purchased six cows and rented a barn nearby. Two boys of the class are on duty a month at a time taking care of the cattle. Milk from the dairy is peddled out about town by the boys.

VERMONT WILL HAVE NEW LAKE IN SPRING

Dam to Form Reservoir to Develop Electricity.

Whitingham, Vt.—Spring will see a new Deerfield valley in southern Vermont. Where once a turbulent little river rushed between the mountains and past dwellings, schoolhouses and tiny cemeteries and through tangled forests, a peaceful lake will mirror the great hills.

Finding its outlet in a tunnel which will carry its water to a powerhouse far below, the lake will furnish the power which, transformed into electricity, will travel over many miles of high-tension wires and operate a large number of New England industrial plants.

Engineers of the New England Power company began work in June, 1922, on this hydro-electric project, one of the greatest in the northeastern section of the country.

It involved the building of an earth dam 200 feet in height and said to be the largest of its kind in the world. It involved also the removal of many buildings, the transfer of several cemeteries to high ground, the relocation of the tracks of the Hoosac Tunnel and Wilmington railroad and the clearing of hundreds of acres of timber and brush.

The reservoir above the great dam is ten miles long and covers an area of 2,200 acres. Its estimated capacity is 38,000,000 gallons of water.

The power to be created will be carried over a transmission line for a distance of 76 miles to Millbury, Mass., the center of the company's system. This line will carry 110,000 volts of electricity.

The spring rains and the melting snow on the mountainsides will swell the little river and the huge amount of water that heretofore has gone to waste will gradually fill the reservoir. The engineers figure the new lake will be fully created by April or May.

The dam itself is 1,300 feet thick at the base, 200 feet in height and 1,250 feet across. It covers 18 acres and contains 1,900,000 cubic yards of earth. The railroad has been diverted to run over the top of the dam.

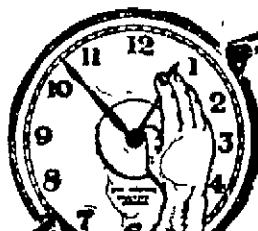

In the whole construction of this project only one man was killed. A workman slipped while digging a three-foot ditch, fell into the ditch and broke his neck.

Landlord's Bonus for Babies Brings Results told all his tenants a year ago that every baby born would get a bonus, and since then the work has been consistently on the job. Every boy born gets a bonus of $50 and every girl $25, and no families without children are permitted to lease flats in the building.

Mr. Swenson, who owns a dry dock not far from the apartment house, bought the building a year ago and the first thing he did was to build a two-story baby carriage garage. If the work continues to be as busy as he has been he expects to have to build an addition to the garage soon. A baby carriage starter has charge of the garage and the carriages now, with more than fifty of them to attend.

Michigan to Seize All Fireworks in Stores

Lansing, Mich.—An order forbidding the sale or use of fireworks in Michigan, except by municipalities, fair associations or amusement parks, was issued here recently by Harry H. Jackson, commissioner of public safety, and Homer Rutledge, state fire marshal.

The order authorizes the state fire marshal, any mayor, chief of police or chief of a fire department, or any supervisor, to confiscate and destroy all fireworks offered for sale, on display, or in use in Michigan.

Phoenixville, Pa.—John Ferguson eats 14 onions each day and never has been ill one day in his life. About 141,120 onions have been eaten by him during 80 years since he began the eating.

"Wait! You May Lose" Wins Safety Contest

Washington.—First prize has been awarded to a poster bearing the warning, "Wait! You May Lose!" submitted by Martin H. Gambree of Brooklyn in the contest conducted by the American Railway association in preparation for an intensive campaign to reduce grade-crossing accidents.

A prize of $500 was offered for the best poster, and another of $100 for the best slogan, and Mr. Gambree obtained both. R. S. Feeley of Baldwinville, N. Y., won the $200 prize offered for the second best poster, and H. Day Lowry of Richmond, Va., won the $100 third prize. More than 20,000 slogans and 5,000 posters were submitted.

What About the Man Who Doesn't Read Ads?

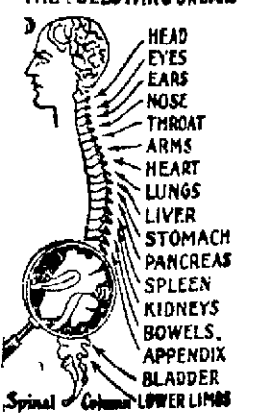

Weekly Health Talk

When you run across a dull, uninteresting man, it's ten to one he will tell you he doesn't read ads. Much of the news of the day is in the ads and the well informed folks are naturally readers of ads.

Chiropractors advertise as an obligation to the sick public. Many people are dying in every community every day because they do not know the power of chiropractic to make the "incurable" and so-called "hopeless" invalids as well again as Nature intended all of us to be.

Chiropractic spinal adjustments as given by this office have restored health to sufferers from diseases of the eyes, ears, nose, throat, lungs, heart, stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, and lower organs.

The Care and Refinishing Of Mahogany and Fine Wood

Reliable Home-Made Cleaner; Removal of Stains, Filling Cracks and Scratches; Polishing and Waxing.

When housewives start in on fine old piece of mahogany has been obtained by hard rubbing, a generous use of elbow grease, not of polish, and it is only by continued use of this elbow grease that the luster is maintained. Let no alluring advertisement tempt you to think otherwise. The finest specimens of mahogany may be utterly ruined by a too generous application of furniture polish. This well meant by unskillful renovating is really worse than neglect, yet to send one's furniture to a cabinet-maker every time it looks shabby or stained adds too much to the high cost of living. With furniture as with human beings there are some ills that can be cured only by specialists, and there are common ailments that can be attended to at home, provided there is understanding mixed with patience. But when the veneering is damaged, or parts are broken, then the skill of an expert is required, and woe to the amateur who tries to make it look like new.

Rub the Cat and the Table the Right Way.

Mahogany should be kept clean if it is going to keep well and look its best. The simplest way to clean it is to wipe it with a damp cloth and then rub well with a clean flannel cloth. This rubbing should be done with the grain of the wood, for fine surfaces resent being "rubbed" the wrong way. If it is a piece that has been neglected, it will need a more thorough cleaning, more drastic methods. First dip a soft cloth into paraffin oil and go over the soiled wood with this, making the surface quite wet. Then wet a woolen cloth with strong soap and wash the wood, using a good deal of pressure, and wipe it quite dry. Finally put one pint of paraffin oil and one-half pint of turpentine (or alcohol or vinegar) into a bottle and shake well. Go over the cleaned wood with a soft cloth wet with this mixture, let it stand a little time to evaporate, and then rub briskly with a dry, clean linen or cotton cloth.

If the wood is clean, but looks dull and faded, it may be polished by rubbing briskly with a dry, linen or cotton cloth.

That White Stain—How To Conquer It.

Stains made on the dining table by hot dishes or on any surface by spilling alcohol may be treated alike. This is the familiar white stain. Alcohol dissolves the gums from which the varnish is made. Therefore alcohol and all substances that contain alcohol, such as perfumery, when spilled on a varnished surface will at once begin to soften the varnish. If one attempts to wipe off the alcohol the varnish as well comes off on the cloth. So instead of wiping it the alcohol should be neutralized by pouring on it some oil. Any kind will do, though sweet oil, paraffin and linseed are the best. Butter does very well. Then rub the surface with the oil and finally rub off all the surplus oil.

If a stain is made by placing too hot a dish on the table it may be quite easily removed if attended to at once. Sometimes simply rubbing it with hot milk or melted butter is all that is necessary. Kerosene oil and turpentine or kerosene oil and alcohol may be used with better results if the stain cannot be removed at once.

A Notable Cleaner and Polisher as Well.

If the stain is very deep or of long standing, a furniture cleaner and polisher may be used, rubbing the part well with several applications of the cleaner. There is no better cleaner and polisher than the following:

Put into a quart bottle, in the order named:
1 gill powdered rottenstone.
1 gill cold drawn linseed oil.
1 gill turpentine.
1 gill naphtha.
1 gill strong solution of oxalic acid.
1 gill alcohol.
1 gill cold water to which has been added gradually 1 tablespoon of sulphuric acid.
Shake well and it is ready for use.

Indian Pudding.

1 quart milk
1 cup yellow corn meal
3 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon allspice
1 teaspoon ginger
1 cup seeded raisins
1 cup finely chopped suet, or
1 cup butter
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup molasses, or all sugar or all molasses.

Scald half the milk. Mix the corn meal with one cup of remaining milk and add gradually to the scalded milk. Cook for five minutes or until it thickens, stirring constantly to prevent lumping. Add the remainder of the milk and beaten eggs, the suet, sugar, molasses, salt and spices. Pour into buttered baking dish and bake slowly for three hours. If butter is used the baking may be completed in 2 or 2½ hours. An hour after the baking begins a cupful of seeded raisins sprinkled with flour may be stirred in.

Teaches His Child Wife

In Stanford, Ky., there is a curious situation of a school teacher having among his pupils, all children, his own wife, a girl just sixteen. He was discovered recently because he endeavored to make his wife-pupil write on the blackboard: "I have never kissed any other man but my husband." The teacher is Melvin Wright and he gained notoriety also for whipping his wife when she broke a school rule.

Plaintiff—On the lips, sir.
Counsel—No! No! you don't understand. I mean, where were you?
Plaintiff (blushing)—In his arms, sir.—Georgia Tech. Yellow Jacket.

Silver and Crystal Find a New Use in the Dining Room

A Word-Picture Starts a Shopping Tour for Dining Room Lighting Fixtures—Wall Candles of Silver With Matching Parchment Shades, Crystal Hung Candelabra and Painted Glass Domes are Among the Newer Features.

"In the dining room the dark, shimmering outline of the mahogany table mirrored, under the glow of candle light, the faint yellow of mimosa blossoms and the blue of Quimper china."

We read the above description over and over again and each time its enchantment grew. Surely to dine in such a setting would be to feast in. Already! Being of an inquiring turn of mind, we analyzed this little word picture carefully to see wherein its magic lay. Mahogany tables seem common enough, and as for the mimosa blossoms and the blue Quimper china, it might easily have been a silver vase of tea roses and old fashioned willow ware, or a squat yellow bowl of lavender sweet peas and gold-banded Haviland china. All have equal decorative possibilities. Can it be then, those simple words "under the glow of candle light" which exercise such a subtle influence? Frankly, we admit to being almost too enthusiastic on the subject of lighting, but there is a fascination about this new art which to us is quite irresistible.

We Shop and Learn.

Our interest awakened, we set out "for to admire and for to see" all the newest fashions and fancies in lighting equipment. And when the day was done, and we were at home reflecting on all that had been seen, we found that the lovely dining room fixtures were the only ones of which we had any clear recollection, all the others being a more or less confused hodge-podge of colored silks and fringe—a top re-incarnated vases. But of the delicate, branching candelabra with their tiny bulbs shaped like a candle flame, and their crystal drops throwing off long gleams of tinted light, we had a most vivid impression, while visions of side-wall fixtures with shades of parchment decorated with silhouetted sailing ships or bewigged Colonial dames remained clearly with us.

Slim, silver wall candles with parchment shades to match made us pause momentarily. You might think that a silver tinted shade would give off a poor light, but instead the glow which is shed has a delightful soothing quality that we have never seen duplicated. Odd looking ones resembling mother-of-pearl intrigued our passing interest, but it is doubtful whether they would have been chosen for actual use.

Painted Glass in Pastel Shades Offers "Something Different."

Most interesting of all were the new glass domes, painted in softest pastel hues, some with trailing morning glory vines across a parchment-like ground giving a charming Japanese effect, others with flower motifs, conventionalized designs and even medallion and lattice etching.

Fixtures of this new glass are so designed that they supply an abundance of light yet possess the soft color tints so desirable for harmony in decoration. The wide variety of styles in fixtures which the electric shops offer make it possible to execute one's most cherished decorative schemes.

Your dining room and mine may present just as charming an appearance to our guests as the "so-beautiful" one described in the opening paragraph, that particular one, by the way, being located in a tiny Parisian apartment on the banks of the Seine.

Many Join Canning Clubs

The 52,000 farm girls enrolled in canning clubs last year, according to reports of the United States Department of Agriculture, canned 2,200,000 quarts of fruits and vegetables. These young homemakers also made 519,990 quarts of jelly.

Life Saving Corps Members

Captain Carroll Lee Bryant, life saving field representative, will be in Kingston Monday, April 7, in the interest of the American National Red Cross life saving work. Captain Bryant would appreciate meeting, all the corps members and examiners in this territory. Any members may communicate with the Red Cross headquarters, or with the Y. M. C. A., about appointments for April.

N. J. Miller, physical director of the Kingston Y. M. C. A., is arranging a program to be given at the pool, at the "Y," which will be published later. This will include demonstration of the Schaefer Phone pressure method of resuscitation.

Meaning of "Tao"

Authorities differ concerning the interpretation of the word "tao." Broadly speaking, it may be defined as the proper, the right road, a conduct of life designed to give the greatest individual happiness. Taoism is a system of philosophy whose greatest exponent was Lao-tse, who embodies his teachings in a book "Tao-teh-king," supposed to have been written shortly before he went into retirement. He taught that contemplation, reason, avoidance of force and disregard of mere ceremonies are the means of regeneration.

A New Kind of Lighting

Artificial lighting may be looked upon as having just passed out of the dark ages. The modern electric lamp gives us a flexibility in size, control and color, which, if understood and appreciated, would provide a distribution and quality of light almost undreamed of by the average housewife.

One of the difficulties in realizing this result is that architects and builders merely provide for lighting outlets. Standard lamps are then put in these outlets and are covered with standard glassware or shades. The housewife generally takes what she finds and accepts it as good lighting practice.

What is needed is a keener appreciation of the possibilities of artificial lighting for the home—some of the care and study given to lighting effects that is ordinarily given to other decorative features of the household.

Better lighting means more diffusive lighting, less of the spotty, white, glaring kind; more color and more combinations of color; less eye strain, less fatigue in reading. The best modern fixtures give a soft light of delicate tint that harmonizes with the decorations in the room. It is a light that gives a feeling of beauty and comfort and ease.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By MARY GRHAM BONNER

FAIRY QUEEN'S PARTY

The Queen of the Fairies had sent out invitations for a party to be given in Fairyland for the last day of next week.

Dressed as Little Yellow Chicks

She had sent out her invitations by the Breeze Brothers and the Breeze Brothers had brought back word that every single guest was coming; in fact they had all accepted with much pleasure.

She had asked them to come in fancy dress and the Breeze Brothers had told her that they thought that was a splendid idea, too.

At last the day of the party came of course, and the Queen of the Fairies was all ready for her guests.

And then they began to arrive.

The rest of the Fairies came dressed as little yellow chicks. They wore costumes of soft fluffy yellow and at their sleeves were touches of black, while on their fluffy yellow hats were touches of black, too. They wore sleeves which looked like little tiny wings.

The Gnomes came dressed to look like calves and they tried to make their eyes look very big.

The Brownies came dressed as fat little pink pigs and they were running around grunting and squealing.

The Elves came dressed as ducks and they waddled about and quacked so that they made a great deal of noise. And they all followed little Elf who led the procession of ducks.

The members of the Bogle family came dressed to look like roosters and they crowed most magnificently and hoarsely.

The members of the Oaf family came dressed as donkeys and brayed for all they were worth.

Then little Brownie and his brother Bennie were dressed to look like two boys and Peter Gnome looked very much like them, too.

Old Mr. Giant was dressed in a farmer's costume and he called little Bennie and Peter his sons.

Witty Witch was dressed to look like the farmer's wife and very pretty and sweet she looked. She wore a blue and white print apron, and a dress of much the same material and color, only a little lighter in shade, while on her head was a sun bonnet, for she said she wanted to be out-of-doors all the time and she didn't want to get a headache from the sun.

She carried a bowl filled with good things to eat—sweets of all sorts—but she pretended she was carrying grain and corn.

In fact they all came looking just as much like a barnyard as was possible.

It was all a surprise to the Fairy Queen for they wanted their costumes to be a great surprise to her.

And she had wanted her costume to be a great surprise to them, so she had dressed herself in a most marvelous costume so that she looked like a great head of lettuce!

And all her guests went around saying she looked so fresh and tender that it was all they could do to keep from eating her!

In fact they pretended that they were taking little nibbles at her! But she told them they didn't need to do that for a banquet was soon to follow.

And such a banquet as was seldom held, even in Fairyland, was this banquet of the Fairy Queen's.

They had the most delicious of early spring delicacies and they ended off with wonderful rhubarb pie—the very first any of them had had this season.

After the banquet was over they played games. And they made rules that every time anyone spoke or laughed or shouted in their own natural voice they would have to pay a forfeit and either sing a song or do a trick or recite a piece of poetry.

There were many forfeits to be paid later on, too. For when they got excited over the games they forgot and their voices weren't like the voices they were supposed to pretend that they had.

Instead of making braying and quack-quacking and grunting and squealing sounds, they would forget and just make their own ordinary ones.

But it was much more fun to have plenty of forfeits to be paid.

And when Old Mr. Giant was leaving, he said:

"I don't suppose people would think that the Fairyland people ever could have such a party!"

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Canned pumpkin or stewed fresh pumpkin may be kept for some time in a cold place.

Even if frozen it does not seem to destroy the flavor. Seasoned with salt and spices in a warm place it will keep a few days.

Never store honey in a damp cellar. It absorbs moisture and will become thin and in time lose its flavor and sour. Where salt remains dry, honey will keep. If honey becomes grainy or candied, place the can or pail in hot water when it will become clear. Do not keep it too long in hot water as it spoils the flavor, color and aroma.

When traveling with bottles of liquid, dip the corks in melted paraffin and the contents will never be spilled. One can carry a candle and always have them safely sealed.

When making a meringue for lemon pie, take a tablespoonful of cold water for each egg white. This increases the amount without changing the quality. When the meringue is ready add a pinch of baking powder and beat well. This helps to keep it from shrinking, or falling when taken from the oven.

Honey makes a good sweetening for cakes, cookies, and puddings. Grated lemon rind as well as orange rind is good with honey dishes.

When making pumpkin pie use honey for sweetening and have a distinctly different pumpkin pie.

During the early spring it is hard to find a variety in vegetable especially in the cold climates, as the winter vegetables which have been stored are losing their flavor and hot house foods are too expensive for the average pocketbook. Here is a dessert one may try for a change:

Steamed Strawberry Shortcake.—Sift two and one-half cups of flour, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt; cut in one-fourth of a cupful of butter, beat one egg and add it with one cupful of milk and one-half cupful of sugar. Mix well, turn into a buttered mold, steam three hours. Serve with whipped cream and crushed strawberries.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

"FIFTY-FOUR, FORTY OR FIGHT"

"Fifty-four, forty, or fight," the cry of the United States Expansionists, which eventually resulted in the annexation of much Pacific coast territory, had its origin in a convention between the United States and Russia, concluded at St. Petersburg just one hundred years ago today, April 5, 1824. This agreement fixed latitude fifty-four, forty as the northern boundary claimed by the United States.

For twenty years the question of the boundary between British America and the United States remained in abeyance. Then came the threat of the United States "fifty-four, forty or fight" and war seemed imminent. The republic claimed what was regarded as the best part of what is now Western Canada. In 1846 commissioners were appointed and the result was that Uncle Sam received the rich Puget Sound section and the lower valley of the Columbia.

Ten years later the boundary question again raised its head, with the island of San Juan as the bond of contention, and this time the matter was not settled until 1872, when—strange as it may seem—the German Emperor as arbitrator, between the United States and England, awarded the disputed territory to the United States.

Mary Succeeds on Main Street

THE UPSIDE DOWN FLYER

Cyle Horchem's letter head pulls your eye instantly over to the left-hand margin. There in small blue letters is this:

FEATURING
Upside Down Flyer
Upside Down Flyer

After you've puzzled that out, you go on and discover on the right and left margins other astonishing legends, such as "Has Flown Approximately 300,000 Miles," or "Performing on Tires 2,000 Feet in the Air," and gradually your eyes come to rest on "If Done in the Air We Do It" with the conviction that Mrs. Horchem must have been learning these things since before airplanes were invented.

Then you discover—if you're as lucky as I was—the picture of an undeniably pretty girl, who isn't the least bit modest about the date of her birth. She discovered America, via Ransom, Kan., in March 1899. Since then she's found time to get an education in Portland and Seattle. For business success she's come back to the same country. Horchem's Aerial shows have headquarters in Wichita.

But Mrs. Horchem explains that she has to be on the road pretty continually—by which I take it she means in the sky—so she gives her "home folks' address" at Ransom, just like a girl who never goes even to the county seat.

In a letter written in July she told me that she had just made a new woman's altitude record of 16,399 feet while flying at St. Louis on July 3.

She's been in commercial aviation four years, parachute jumping two years. (Somehow that simple record of a year or two years to learn one new form of control over herself and her machine gives one a thrill of realization of the hugeness of each victory.)

As a regular job, Mrs. Horchem specializes on carrying passengers commercially. The last half year has kept her at this work very steadily. On her present notch stick of achievement she has chosen to keep the record of miles flown. Counting from January, 1923, she is aiming to make 20,000 miles before winter shuts down on her job of aerial taxi driver.

Even though the weather was mild last winter, there were times when orders could not be filled promptly. We believe that the service rendered by us at all times, and especially when there was a shortage of coal in the City of Kingston, warrants continued patronage.

To avoid a shortage and to be assured of coal for your winter's use, we recommend that you place orders NOW.

Think of owning a Car with a body finish like this!

For the first time in motor car history—Oakland has successfully combined beauty and permanence in an automobile body finish. This extraordinary achievement is made possible by the use of an entirely new substance—Duco, the remarkable qualities of which provide—

- A finish in a beautiful Oakland Blue, distinctive and striking;
- A finish which, though covered with mud, can quickly be restored to its original beauty, without scratching, by wiping with a dry cloth;
- A finish impervious to all weather, to sun, rain, salt air and alkaline conditions;
- A finish so resistant to harm that sulphuric acid and the chemicals of fire extinguishers have been sprayed upon it, then wiped off, leaving no marring traces;
- A finish so enduring that it will retain its original beauty and lustre indefinitely without checking or dulling.

See this remarkable finish and let us demonstrate its rare qualities to you. Examine also the many other advanced and exclusive features. You, too, will realize then why the True Blue Oakland is so frequently called the surprise car of 1924.

Truth Stranger Than Fiction

Meet the Nemesis of the Nematodes, self to a study of nematodes. Nematodes are serpentine organisms, highly organized, possessing almost all traits, including apparent intelligence, at higher forms of life. They attack plants at the root in colonies, attach themselves to grass, hopper and other insects and prey upon them. So around with beetle and eat their eggs as fast as laid, and not usually, best of one another. They have apparatus which apparently cannot be satisfied and absorb their food with enormous rapidity. There is one thing that the Cobb is studying the microbe and nematode doesn't like. Dr. Cobb of approximately 100 that he and his assistants, the average nematode, his laboratory while fighting would walk a mile from a cornfield, formidable little enemy to plant and animal life. Dr. Cobb believes that his life of scientific research, to 100 years, planting in corn will clear needs assistance, a young man of 20 years of age, a section of his nematodes, with fundamental education of a sort that would enable him to apply him to

$350 Music For Girl Scouts

On Tuesday evening, April 8, several former members of Vincent Lopez dance orchestra will play for the Girl Scout dance at the Board of Water Supply Hall, High Falls. Every radio fan has heard the Vincent Lopez orchestra over the radio and knows that every member must be an artist. Two of the members are from High Falls. They are the "Slater Boys." They with others have recently formed the "Slater Dance Orchestra" and will open up with engagements the day following their playing at High Falls.

To secure this high class orchestra for a dance would cost around $350, but they are to contribute their services for the Girl Scouts without any charge, which means instead of paying a big price to hear them, it will only cost a few cents more than a movie ticket. The scout girls are anxious to make enough money to buy new uniforms.

During the short stay that the orchestra will make at High Falls they will be entertained at the Slater Homestead.

PROCK SHOWS THE REJUVENATION OF ALPACA
(By Eleanor Gunn.)

In the far off days when grandma at about 40 took to wearing black alpaca and settled down to the family mending, convinced that life held no other joys for her than those her children contributed, alpaca was not listed as a fashionable material. Its appeal was along the line that it shed the dust, was durable and "refined," but alpaca like grandma has gone through a process of rejuvenation. Instead of sit-by-fire wear, grandma now wears it when she goes forth with her golf instead of her darning ball to do her 18 holes.

For some reason America has not extended a warm welcome to fabrics of the alpaca family in spite of the fact that it was a tremendous success in Paris as long ago as last summer. Reports here are to the effect that attempts to launch alpaca have met with discouragement, but custom tailors and certain exclusive dressmakers find orders drifting in from women who have confidence in the judgment of Paris.

The model sketched is an alpaca interpretation by Madeleine and Madeleine. A bit of silver embroidery relieves the solemnity of the frock and the trick of creating a back at variance with the front is again resorted to while the neopline becomes a dash.

Mr. Mavfee's wife asked him to keep track of the number of times that he swore in a round of golf. After eighteen holes he came in and emptied a handful of stones out of each pocket, saying, "Here are the damns, the rests are coming on the truck, you count them."

Have you ever stopped to think that it is about one man in a million who gets the million.

The perpetual changes in the weather this winter lead us to the conclusion that the women are trying to run that now, too.

A Toast.
Here's to the girls—the young ones;
Not too young.
For the good die young—
And nobody wants a dead one.
Here's to the girls—the old ones
Not too old.
For the old die too;
And nobody wants a dyed one.

"It takes a good man to do this," said the shade of the deceased as he entered the pearly gates.

In some restaurants the only thing that is well done without a special order is the patron.

The world may not be crazy, but the songs they sing, the stuff they drink and the other fool things they do probably would lead a man from Mars to decide what a good many people in the world are.

The new insurance regulation giving a lower rate on burglary protection to householders owning watch dogs makes life dark for persons who live in apartment houses where dogs and children are prohibited. The fact probably is that a light left burning in the front room of an apartment will scare away more burglars than a half dozen watch dogs, but as to the insurance companies refunding the cost of the increased light bill—well, try to get it.

These have been considerably shortened although they are not perceptibly wider. THE OFFICE CAT

It's leap year and my throbbing heart is hoping for the best: I'd like to have some little girl to lean against my vest. I do not pen these lines for fun, in jollity, or jest; I offer me, myself—O Fate, come put me to the test! I realize there ain't much chance for ugly men like me, Unless the girls would take a chance, and leap before they see. I'd like to tell 'em one and all I'll pay the wedding fee; Come girls, don't hesitate and miss this opportunity.

The telephone companies claim that spooning by wire costs them $12,000 a year. But it does not say what it costs the chappies who spoon.

You can't blame the girl, however, if she hears her proud mamma telling what a whiz she would be in the movies.

Correct this sentence: "Yes, it's wonderful," said the woman, "but I'd rather have our own little five-room bungalow."

Fashion note: Shorter skirts are on the way. We suppose that means the high way.

Mr. Mavfee's wife asked him to keep track of the number of times that he swore in a round of golf. After eighteen holes he came in and emptied a handful of stones out of each pocket, saying, "Here are the damns, the rests are coming on the truck, you count them."

TEST HOLDING POWER OF 4-WHEEL BRAKES

STARTING ENGINE IN ZERO WEATHER

Priming Is Probably the Best Way Out of Predicament—Warm Up Slowly.

(By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.)

To start an automobile engine in zero weather is quite a problem, the difficulty of which depends upon the construction and size of the engine, the quality of fuel used, the strength of the spark, and, of course, the height of the mercury in the thermometer at the particular time.

As a first aid in starting, priming is probably the best way out of the predicament. There are many ways of priming an engine. The chief idea of priming is to get a rich explosive mixture that will fire the instant it touches the spark gaps. After the engine has been coaxed into starting it will—if so inclined—get up enough speed to run upon its customary allowance of gasoline. To make doubly sure it is advisable to pull out the primer a short distance to make the usual mixture slightly richer than normal until the engine obtains sufficient heat for average carburetion.

Take Time in Warming Up.

Take time in warming up the engine. Don't stamp your foot down on the accelerator and allow the engine to race like a broken-down Lewis gun, for with the poor lubrication, it usually results in serious damage. It is bound to have a bad effect if practiced regularly. Run the engine slowly for three or four minutes before setting it to work, and you can economize not only in repair bills, but also in oil and gasoline.

When you start your car on a cold morning, have you noticed that the self-starter whirs a longer time than it did in summer before the engine starts? The self-starter is designed to start the engine and will, if the battery is in proper condition. But bear in mind that the current consumption is not by any means proportional to the time that the self-starter consumes to start the engine.

More Current Demanded.

The greater viscosity of cold oil in winter will make the starting torque so great as to demand three or four times the amount of current from the battery than it did in summer. Therefore, assist the starting motor by providing the rich mixture mentioned. All of this mixture does not reach the cylinders, as much of it will condense on the cold walls of the intake manifold. In doing this you remove a costly portion of the burden that would otherwise be demanded from the battery.

Homemade Wrench Handy for Many Car Purposes

A monkey wrench is a very handy tool, but it has a bad habit of opening of its own accord, and sometimes results in bruised knuckles, says the Automobile Digest. A complete set of solid wrenches is frequently too expensive for the car owner to purchase; but with a little labor, every car owner can possess a set which will answer every purpose. A wrench can be made from a piece of old pipe, flattened either at one or both ends or in the middle. The flattening is done by bending to redness and hammering. As the common grade of piping has a seam, care should be taken to keep the seam in the center of the flattened portion, rather than near the ends. The opening is produced by first drilling and then filing to shape.

Cause of Dim Lights

Did you ever wonder why the engine does not show the accustomed pep or why the lights burn dimly or the ignition seems poor? Unfasten the wires and bars at the battery terminals and notice if they are clean. They must be clean if current is to flow freely. Scrape off with a stick any green or white deposit you see, and spread a little cup grease over the parts to prevent corrosion.

Repairing Dented Gas Tank by Simple Plan

If ever the gasoline tank of your car becomes dented, the tank may be repaired simply in this manner:

The first step is to fill the tank with water and drain it, to avoid any possibility of a gasoline explosion when solder is applied. A round-end carriage bolt is then soldered firmly to the center of the dented portion of the tank. A crossbar with two blocks is fitted over the dent so that the threaded end of the bolt passes through it. By means of a lift and washer on the bolt sufficient pressure can be exerted on the depression to draw it out flush.

If the hole was made by a collision, the same method may be used and the opening filled with the solder left after the bolt is removed.—M. T., in Popular Science Monthly.

Window in Car Ahead Is Help to Avoid Crashes

The glass window light in the back curtain of the car ahead can be very useful. Through it a lot of dangers can be seen in advance, much to the advantage of the man who is in the wake.

Where cars are running abreast of each other so that the road cannot be seen by looking around the car ahead, it is best to drive just far enough in back of the other car to look through its window light and windshield at the street ahead. When a quick stop is necessary the stopping of the car ahead will not be unexpected—nor so dangerous.

In close congestion where cars are moving very slowly, and only a few feet at a time, the stop signal can be saved a lot of unnecessary flashing, and the battery current saved, if the driver would use his emergency brake.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

Backlash, when in the steering column itself, is usually due to depreciation of the gearing and wear in the various members which support the column.

A dynamo is a machine for converting mechanical energy into an electrical current; a starting motor transforms the electrical current into mechanical energy.

When spark plugs habitually become fouled with oil and soot it is a good plan to investigate and see whether they may not be projecting too far into the combustion chamber.

Last Flhaja Trio Concert

The last of the three concerts of chamber music at the high school by the Flhaja Trio occurred on Friday evening and in some ways it was the best of the three. Two tries by modern composers were played, and perhaps it is scarcely admissible to compare the modern composers of trio music with the old masters, as today both the form and the content is so different, yet the Trio by Gade and that by Arensky, especially the latter, were full of charm. The soloist was Earle Tuckerman, baritone, who delighted his hearers.

The program opened with the Gade Trio, Op. 42 in F-Major. Each time that the Flhaja Trio is heard the ensemble grows a little closer and it is indeed a matter of regret that the concerts have so soon come to an end. The Allegro Animal movement set the audience in tune with the evening's music while the Allegro Molto Vivace with its charming theme and its insistent rhythm increased the interest of the listeners. There was something instant and almost commanding in the Andantino which passed directly into the stirring Allegro Con Fuoco.

Mr. Tuckerman has a powerful baritone voice and a keen appreciation of the songs he sings. His first group included the lovely old English song, "Sonn Rival Bath Storch," "Loelle Banger," by O'Hara, which he sang delightfully; and "The Blind Ploverman," by Clarke, which gave the singer an opportunity to show his dramatic as well as vocal talent. In response to the applause Mr. Tuckerman sang that old negro spiritual "Ole Ark am A-mov-er-in."

Next on the program were two short Trio numbers that were as charming as they were short: "An Molly," by Glinka-Herrmann and "Du Wusstest Nicht," by Dargomischsky-Herrmann. The applause was most enthusiastic and in acknowledgment the Trio, composed of Mrs. Cuddeker, violinist; Jacob Mollitt, cellist, and Harry P.

SAYS FATE SELECTS PERFECT MATES FOR WOMEN.

Count and Countess Korzybska, of Polish nobility, are visiting in Chicago. The beautiful Countess, an English-born Polish noblewoman, world-famous portrait painter and scientist, startled Chicago's society by declaring her belief that there is a perfect mate chosen by fate for every woman. She thinks all humans are created in pairs, and all that remains for one to be happy is to find the man who was intended to be her husband.

Dodgson, pianist, played "The Brook," an exquisite composition, with the grace and smoothness.

Mr. Tuckerman sang as his second group of songs "The Leprechaun," the old Irish; "Little Mary Cassidy," old Irish; "Tally-ho," by Leoni, one of his best numbers; and "Captain Straton's Fancy," by D. Taylor. As encore numbers, for he was twice recalled this time, Mr. Tuckerman sang one of Harry Burleigh's Folk Tunes and then the old negro spiritual that is of Civil War date, "Traveling to the Grave," and sang them splendidly.

The program closed with the Arensky Trio, Op. 32, in D Minor. The Allegro Moderato opened with a sort of violin recitative taken up by the other instruments, and beautifully elaborated. The charm of the theme was such as to seem to hold the composer both to leave it, and as it was played by the Trio the audience was just as loath to hear the final chord of the movement. There was humor indeed and gaiety in the Scherzo to a marked degree, while the Elegia was very lovely, yet full of a rare dignity and repose that was most appealing. It was one of the best things that the Trio did, too. The ensemble, the phrasing the whole performance of the closing movement, "Finale—Allegro Non Troppo," was such as to hold the closest attention and interest of the audience which showed its appreciation of the remarkably fine concert

The Poughkeepsie paper also states that Rule Forester is expected in Poughkeepsie shortly to sign a contract with the Red Sox. Earlier in the week he made a verbal agreement with the Red Sox but had signed no contract.

Manager Lou Brown or Judge Schrick have not heard a word from the New Paltz twirler since his last visit to Kingston at which time he assured them he would be in a Colonial uniform when the season opened.

The Lunatic
A man called at our office the other day and said:

"I want ask about my income tax, if you know."

"Ah!" we sighed sympathetically. "I want know," he said, "about this. Last year I had 't borrow money 't pay 't tax on my income; this year I had 't borrow money 't pay that back and pay this year's taxes, and next year I got to sell my house 't pay 't all and my taxes. Now, how 't does the government owe me for what I ain't got?"

We murmured appreciatively and motioned for the bouncer. These troubled ones really bother us a lot!—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Football Coach Tells of Freak Crafty Play

Frequently in a pinch a good football team will resort to a freak play. Such teams as Pittsburgh, Penn State and Notre Dame are full of gulls and very clever in making such plays go through. The Carlisle Indians were generally a crafty crew.

But none of these ever pulled a play quite like the one told of by a man who coached in the West last year. Said this individual: "I had a play which I used several times with fine success. My quarterback, whenever he saw fit, would complain to the referee that the opposing team was offside or was holding and, therefore, deserving of a penalty. Of course, the official would take no heed of his plea. Then the player, apparently quite perturbed, would declare, 'All right, I'll take the distance myself.' Accordingly, he would begin pacing off the yards, and once clear would start a sprint for the goal."

Hoppe Greatest Player in World of Billiards

Willie Hoppe truly is the marvel of the billiard world. Thirty-seven years old, he has been playing billiards steadily since he was a youngster of six, having inherited his talent from his father and mother, who were billiard experts.

Billiards require steady nerves, remarkable patience and rare courage. One would think the strain of defending his championships for so many years would wreck Hoppe's nervous system, but, to the contrary, he seems to improve with age.

Hoppe first acquired the 18.1 ball-line title by defeating Maurice Vignaux of France in Paris in 1903. He won the 18.2 ball-line crown from George Sutton in 1909 and has held the title ever since with the exception of the brief period that young Jake Schaefer had the title in his custody.

President Bob Allen of the Little Rock club of the Southern association has signed Charles Ward, a youngster from Huntington, W. Va.

Lou Gowan, who pitched for Enid in the Western association last year, has obtained a transfer to the Kalamazoo club of the Int. League.

Elmer Myers, Salt Lake City pitcher, former Boston and Philadelphia American moundman, has been traded to the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league.

Mack Hillis, infielder recently released by the Rochester club, has not fed Mike Kelley that he has quit baseball and gone into business in San Francisco.

PICTURE SERMON SUNDAY AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The pastor of the Rondout Presbyterian Church will give a picture sermon on Sunday evening, the first of two on successive Sunday evenings on "The Path of Nazareth." The beautiful colored slides are from original photographs of the wonderful series of clay models by D. Mastroianni of Paris. These pictures have a life-like quality because of the modelling which could not be secured in any other way, and perhaps the most attractive feature of this series is the fact that as one artist's ideas are shown throughout, the entire series, it is possible for one to become acquainted with the characters in the pictures and to follow them as the story progresses.

Elephant's Last Walk

The autograph of an elephant on the way to his own funeral, an event which occurred some million years or so ago, has been found in Nevada. The footprints of the great beast are clearly seen as he made them when he plodded wearily along through the soft sand, subsequently hardening into rock. That it was his last walk was discovered when the scientists excavated the rock and traced the footprints to where the fossil bones of this denizen of the forests of ancient times laid.
